

Rotated Text Run Geometry

The quick brown fox jumps over the lazy dog while a margin stamp along the left edge reads from the bottom of the page to the top. Region extraction must keep that stamp out of these body columns.

Column two continues the paragraph with more ordinary horizontal text so column detection sees a regular two-column page and the stamp cannot pass for a spanning title line across both columns.